Norland Virtual Event

I'm delighted to share with you the latest news from Norland and remind you of the details of our virtual open morning which is taking place on Saturday 8 May 2021, 10am-12pm.

We're looking forward to virtually welcoming guests to Norland with a live tour with our principal, vice principal, staff and students who will show prospective students around the Norland campus.

There will then be an opportunity for students to ask those all important questions in our virtual Q&A session after the tour and we'd encourage you to share this newsletter with your students, especially those who have expressed an interest in pursuing a career in the early years.

Katie, a second-year student, will be at the event and has written to you to encourage your students to attend if they're interested in a career working with children.

"Hello, my name is Katie, and I'm in my second year at Norland. I'm originally from Cornwall where I studied A levels in politics, sociology, and health and social care. I found out about Norland through a family friend while nannying for her two sons. After looking at the website, I booked onto the next open day I could and that is where my Norland journey began.

I was lucky enough to visit our Oldfield Park campus and absolutely loved what I saw – the staff and the students were so full of knowledge and had such an infectious passion for Norland and childcare. It was so inspiring and really motivated me with my A levels and gaining childcare experience going forward as I had a goal. Even though our open days are virtual for the time being, the passion and buzz of Norland is still there, and we'd love to welcome your students along!

Attending open days is so important when choosing your degree and where you want to study. I found the community atmosphere at Norland really helped me to have fun on my open day and feel comfortable asking questions. This opportunity to get to know staff and students at open events is especially valuable at Norland because if you do choose to study here, you will almost definitely come across those people again, which is one of the many unique joys of Norland. I have loved my Norland journey so far and will always remember the open day I attended, and I know many of my friends and classmates do too!

We are really looking forward to welcoming students to our virtual open day on 8 May and I hope to see your students there!"

Norland Unwrapped

We are pleased to announce that the next Norland Unwrapped session will be held on Tuesday 8 June 2021, 5-6pm. Following feedback from previous sessions, this event will focus on placements, one of the most important aspects of the Norland training and part of the Norland diploma.

We're delighted to have placement manager Jo Brimble as well as one of the placement officers, who is also a graduate from Norland, on the panel.

We're also pleased to have two current students who will talk about their experiences of placement including how they found placements during lockdown and how they put theory into practice. This is a fantastic way to take a deep dive into a specific aspect of Norland's training in an informal and relaxed way.

Bookings will go live shortly so watch this space. If your students haven't viewed our Norland Unwrapped sessions before they can watch them on our website.

Outreach

I'm pleased to announce the launch of our new outreach webpage where you can view our events and download information that your students might find useful. There is also an FAQs section specifically aimed at careers advisers. We'd love to hear your feedback!

We are also keen to attend careers fairs for the next academic year and talk in person to your students about studying at Norland. This would be subject to government guidelines, so please do contact me.

This free 5-day careers event will feature speakers from construction companies, sustainability specialists, product innovators, academia, the UN and NASA.

There will also be bonus breakout activities across the week including confidence coaching, CV writing, mentoring, apprentice/graduate panels, information about T-levels and Apprenticeships, and neurodiversity in construction.
